Volunteers will take children ages 8-17 on free flights over Cynthiana.

Kids College deadline is June 19

For parents of children between the ages of 6 and 12 years old, the MCTC/Licking Valley Campus is inviting kids to this year's Kids College with the theme of What an Adventure.

It will be held July 6-10 from 8 to 11:50 a.m.

Jury trials averted with guilty pleas

By BECKY BARNES, Editor

Several defendants who were expected to stand trial this month changed their pleas last week and now face sentencing. The jury trials that were scheduled in many of the cases have been cancelled.

Tonya Applegate will return to court on June 18 for a pretrial conference on some of her charges while the jury trial for that same date remains for three charges. The jury will hear the cases for first-degree assault, first-degree wanton endangerment and second-degree persistent felony offender (PFO).

The continued charges are second-degree assault (two counts), intimidating a participant in the legal process, third-degree terroristic threatening, second-degree PFO, convicted felon in possession of a firearm and second-degree PFO.

Applegate allegedly shot one of her two boyfriends.

Jennifer Bishop entered a guilty plea to a charge of theft of identity without consent. Her sentencing was set for July 7.

Other charges against her, third-degree criminal trespassing and theft by unlawful taking under $500, were dismissed.

Formal sentencing was set for June 16 for Raven Edwards, who entered guilty pleas to charges of first-degree complicity to burglary and first-degree attempted robbery.

Her charges stem from a Dec. 22 home invasion where one of the alleged suspects, Marcus Gross, was shot and killed.

A third suspect, Larry Nolen, was sentenced to 15 years in prison for a previous guilty plea to first-degree robbery and first-degree attempted robbery. A request for probation was denied.

The June 10 jury trial for Abby Hicks was also cancelled after she entered guilty pleas to charges of second-degree burglary (two counts) and theft by unlawful taking $10,000 or more but less than $1 million.

Her formal sentencing will be held July 21.

A PFO charge was dismissed on a motion of the Commonwealth.

Samantha Smiley was also scheduled for jury trial on Wednesday. However, she changed her plea on charges of selling/transferring simulated controlled substance (two counts) and an amended charge of complicity to second-degree robbery.

Her formal sentencing has now been set for July 7.

Eric Tucker entered a guilty plea to flagrant non-support while a PFO charge was dismissed.

His sentencing will be July 21.

A July 22 jury trial has been set for Eric Wright, who faces a charge of convicted felon in possession of a handgun, theft by unlawful taking (firearm), theft by unlawful taking under $500 (two counts).

Wedco approves needle exchange proposal

By KELLY MCKINNEY, News Writer

A needle-exchange program for Harrison County is one step closer after the Wedco District Board of Health voted Monday to support financing the program.

The local board of health for Harrison County already voted at its last meeting to support the measure.

The next step in implementing a needle-exchange is to get approval and support from the Harrison County Fiscal Court.

The board serves Nicholas and Scott counties as well, and approved financing for exchanges in all three counties.

Crystal Caudill, public health director for Wedco, said financing was needed from the district board because the legislation allowing for needle-exchange programs didn't include funding for them, which means health departments have to fund the programs.

The district health board set aside $8,000 for the needle exchanges in its budget, which was approved Monday.

But Caudill said the program is still in very early stages and it is not yet known what the actual cost will be.

Also not yet known is how the needle-exchanges, if approved, will operate.

"Everybody (who has started a needle-exchange) is very different; everybody is very green," Caudill said. "Everybody admits it's going to be trial and error."

Some health department send a person out into the community to run the exchange, something board member and

HarriCyn Athletics headed to Business Park

By KELLY MCKINNEY, News Writer

A new business is coming to the business park off U.S. 62 West in Cynthiana, and EDA members say its lot purchase means greater opportunity to draw more businesses to the park.

The Cynthiana-Harrison County Economic Development Authority used part of the $45,000 sale price to pay off its debt on the business park, freeing up money to use in efforts of luring other business, Frazer LeBus, chairman of the EDA, said.

The $15,904.37 payment was approved by the EDA at its meeting last Thursday.

That payment is the last of the amount owed on the debt for the business park, which was purchased in the late 1990s for around $800,000.

The lot, which is just over four and a half acres, was sold to HarriCyn Athletics, LLC. Its plans are to build two buildings for athletic activities. The buildings will equal between 10,000 and 12,000 square feet, LeBus said.

HarriCyn Athletic's owners are Gregory and Diana Shirley and Miller and Frances Davis. According to the company's Facebook page, it will be an indoor athletic facility that will have all-star cheerleading, indoor soccer training, indoor baseball training, batting cages and party rentals, as well as other possible activities.

The lot sold to HarriCyn Athletics is the fifth lot sold in the past few years, LeBus said.

The sales came after the business park sat for more than a decade with just one occupant.

The park was purchased around 1996. Bluegrass Energy bought its lot a short time later, sometime in the late 90s, LeBus said.

Then, no other businesses came to the park until United Propane Gas moved in just a few years ago.

Since UPG located at the park, Bay Horse Innovations has located there, and lots have been sold to Leland Sparks, an adjacent property owner who has said he plans to build a mini storage facility; and to Court ponders ambulance service late fee charge for county's contribution

By KELLY MCKINNEY, News Writer

Several questions about a new three-year contract proposed by Brown Ambulance Service with the county caused the Harrison County Fiscal Court to hold off on making a decision on the proposal at its meeting Tuesday. "There was something that didn't fly with me personally," Judge-Executive Alex Barnett said.

He said the contract calls for a 3 percent fee to be paid by the fiscal court if the court is late making its payment to Brown. Last year during the bad weather the county experienced, the fiscal court didn't have one of its meetings and didn't get Brown's payment in until the end of the month.

Barnett said Brown representatives told him the late fee is included in typical contracts, but Barnett said he doesn't believe the fee is fair considering the fiscal court supplements Brown's income.

The fiscal court currently pays the ambulance service $225,000 a year, Barnett said.

There also were a lot of issues over insurance, Barnett said. Brown Ambulance is asking to be included in the county's automobile insurance policy as a co-insured. Barnett said he wasn't sure exactly what the implications of doing that would be.

The county does not have to contract with the ambulance service, Barnett said.

It entered into its first contract with Brown in 2012, after company representatives asked for a long-term contract. Company representatives at that time said the ambulance service could not gain stability with three-month service agreements.

Barnett said he would discuss the insurance questions with the Kentucky Association of Counties, which provides the county's automobile insurance. The fiscal court will take up the proposal at its next meeting.

In other business Tuesday, the fiscal court:

- approved County Clerk Linda Furnish's calculation of motor vehicle and boat bills for 2015. According to the calculation, there were 22,131 motor vehicle and boat accounts for the county as of Jan. 1. The fiscal court will pay the county clerk 15 cents per account, for a total of $3,319.65.

- voted to continue providing health insurance for the next year for Robin Florence, director of the Harrison County Senior Center. The county provided coverage for Florence the past year. Barnett said the center is almost to where it can provide the coverage itself, but still needs help right now.

- approved re-appointment of Mary Withers to the Harrison County Fire Tax District for a three-year term. Barnett said others had expressed interest in the position, but that he recommended re-appointing Withers.

- approved a cooperative agreement with several other counties in Kentucky (the Bluegrass Workforce Area) to cooperate with the other counties in sharing of powers to help provide services to develop local communities.

- voted to release a real estate mortgage held on 4.4 acres of the business park. The parcel was sold to HarriCyn Athletics by the Economic Development Authority. Barnett said this release should be Miles Gas Company. Miles Gas Company bought a lot that is just over five and half acres last year for $82,000.

The EDA also has been leasing the agriculture sections around the park to William McNeese to farm.

"We've been fortunate here in the last few years," LeBus said. "We've been able to sell these lots, and we've had help from the city and county."

LeBus said he expects HarriCyn Athletics to employ a couple of people, and Miles Gas Company will have between one and three employees. Bay Horse Innovations has 20 employees, LeBus said.

The EDA hopes its heightened efforts will attract some larger companies, though it also hopes to continue to draw in smaller businesses, LeBus said.

He said having many smaller businesses would be good, as fewer people would be out of work if one shut its doors.

LeBus said developing the park is a challenge.

"It's been tough getting it going," he said. "Being so far away has made it tough to lure large manufacturers here."

Its location, 16 miles from I-75, isn't the only difficulty to drawing in really big companies, LeBus said. The terrain at the park also isn't really conducive to really large buildings.

Another current obstacle to getting bigger companies is the lack of gas to the area, and the lack of the water pressure needed by many companies, LeBus said.

Running gas lines and improving the water pressure are options the EDA might consider for increasing the attractiveness of the park for large companies, LeBus said.

"We've got to get something out there to lure big manufacturers," he said.

Another possible way to attract more businesses the EDA is considering is getting lots ready, which might include grading, soil testing, and paving, LeBus said. But he said doing so would be expensive.

"We've got to determine if it's justifiable for us to do," LeBus said.

Advertising to a broader audience also is being considered by the EDA.

LeBus said the EDA is always looking for ways to bring more jobs to the area, not only the park but other areas such as downtown, but it isn't easy.

"It's a tough task," he said. "It requires a lot of time and delicate orchestration."

But LeBus said he's optimistic about Cynthiana's and Harrison County's future.

"We have good education, a good community college, a good hospital," LeBus said. "We want to add to that; we want to lure the type of jobs we want, which are higher-paying jobs."

And bringing in companies leads to more wanting to come to the area, LeBus said.

"It's like a domino thing," he said. "Once you get one in you might get two or three."

In addition to approving the final payment on the debt, the EDA also took other action in regards to the business park at its meeting last Thursday. It approved a motion to ask the city and county governments to officially release any mortgages or guarantees that they hold on the park. It also approved a motion to include the vote on the sale of the lot to Miles Gas Company from its October 2014 meeting, which had not been included in that meeting's minutes.

Needle

Harrison County Judge-Executive Alex Barnett said he would not want to do for safety reasons.

"I think we need to investigate what will work," Barnett said.

After board Chairman John Bennett raised the question of whether the board should go ahead and approve financing a full-time position for the needle-exchange program should it become necessary, that addition became part of the motion to support financing the needle-exchanges.

The board members present voted unanimously to support the measure.

Board member Dr. Derek Clarke was absent and did not vote.

A needle-exchange will allow intravenous drug users to exchange dirty needles for clean ones through Wedco Health Department. Those utilizing the program can't be prosecuted for possessing the needles obtained through the program.

The bill allowing needle-exchange programs, Senate Bill 192, was signed into law by Gov. Steve Beshear in March.

The Great Museum Treasure Hunt enters second week

This Cynthiana Drive-In speaker is your clue for the second week of the Cynthiana-Harrison County Museum's Great Treasure Hunt. Twenty-six students took the time to visit the museum during the first week and are now eligible for prizes. Students are encouraged to visit the museum each of the eight weeks of the Hunt. During this time, a museum artifact will be pictured somewhere on the pages of The Cynthiana Democrat. Students K-12 are tasked with finding that article inside the museum. Each participant will receive a Leono's coupon. Those students who locate the item will be in the drawing to win a free movie pass to the Rohns Opera House. Weekly winners will be eligible for the Aug. 1 grand prize drawing. Photographs of the items will also be available at the museum, which is open only on Fridays and Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sponsors for the event are Leono's, Rohns Opera House and The Cynthiana Democrat.

Airport to benefit from $1.4 million taxiway expansion

By KELLY McKINNEY, News Writer

The Cynthiana/Harrison County Airport is spreading its wings.

The facility is set to undergo a greater than $1.4 million expansion that will add a taxiway allowing for greater safety, according to airport board chairman Bobby Craft.

“We don’t really have a taxiway,” Craft said. “So you’re on the runway too long.”

The taxiway will run parallel to the existing runway, and will connect to the runway at each end, allowing planes to taxi and not be in the way of planes taking off or landing.

“If you’re going to back-taxi to take off, you’ve got a way to get off the runway,” Craft said.

Craft said the taxiway will increase safety at the airport, especially now that planes are landing there using instruments, rather than making solely visible landings like they used to.

Airport board member Will Smith said another advantage to having the taxiway is that it will allow planes to maneuver for takeoff into a headwind, which is the best way for planes to take off and land if there is wind.

Smith said the addition could bring more business to the airport, which currently averages 31 operations per day.

“It’ll be a bonus,” Smith said. “Pilots will be glad we’ve got it.”

The taxiway will come in especially handy on days when the airport hosts the Young Eagles, and takes them on flights, Smith said.

“We’ll have 12 to 14 pilots in the air,” Smith said.

“In the past, we’ve had to coordinate all those pilots. Next year, we’ll be able to line up the planes (and land.)”

The taxiway will make it much more efficient, he added.

The project is being paid for with federal and state grants, Craft said. The state is paying around $700,000, and the federal government is paying about $760,000.

The project is scheduled to begin on June 22, and is scheduled to last 120 days, Craft said. The airport will remain open for most of the project, but will have short periods when it will have to close.

The airport also received a $100,000 grant to seal-coat and repaint the existing runway. That work is scheduled to start on June 15 and run through June 29.

Two local women receive awards at NKU

Two Cynthiana women were honored by the Department of History and Geography at Northern Kentucky University on Wednesday, April 22, as recipients of awards that reflect outstanding student achievement.

Mary Norbom was the recipient of the H. Lew Wallace Junior History Award. She is a junior majoring in history and has maintained a 4.0 average, earning a position on the Dean's List for 2014-2015. She transferred to NKU after completing an Associate's Degree at Maysville Community College, Licking Valley Campus in Cynthiana in 2014.

Norbom and her husband, Herb, moved to Cynthiana in 2009. In her spare time she enjoys decorating their Victorian home, built in 1893, and taking care of their three dogs adopted from the Flora Shropshire Animal shelter.

Her son, Ryan, resides in Delaware with his wife. Norbom is also active in the Harrison County Democratic Women's Club and is looking forward to participating in community events.

Her professors at Licking Valley inspired her to further her education with a goal of completing a Master's Degree in History in the hopes of one day becoming a professor at the community college here in Cynthiana.

Tara Farrar received the Outstanding Senior Award in Geography.

She is a geography major with a double minor in psychology and women's and gender studies. She graduated summa cum laude this spring.

While attending college as a single parent, she founded a campus organization called "Parents Attending College at NKU" in 2012, after recognizing the need for a group that supports students who are also parents.

She is employed by the Commonwealth's Attorney's Office in Cynthiana and looks forward to becoming more active in the community now that the demands of school are finishing.

She hopes to use her education and experience to assist local resources in combatting social disparities and inequality.

She has two daughters, Hannah and Naomi, and was recently married to her husband, Michael Laws.

Even though Norbom and Farrar had never met, they shared a table at the awards banquet. They were delighted to discover that they had more in common than being good students. They are both Harrison County residents who believe that there is great potential for non-traditional students to excel in academics at our local colleges.

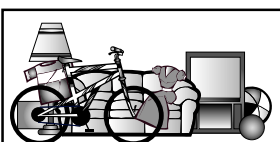

Tara Farrar, left, and Mary Norbom met at an awards banquet at Northern Kentucky University.

Cynthiana Police increase numbers by two at commission meeting

By BECKY BARNES, EDITOR

Plans are underway to relieve some of the overtime stresses in the Cynthiana Police Department.

At Tuesday's city commission meeting, a certified police officer and an officer-recruit were sworn in to the department.

Former Cynthiana patrolman Michael Coppage will be returning to the streets after serving several years in Falmouth.

He will begin in Cynthiana immediately.

Vance Meighan, a native of Bath County, will be attending a 22-week academy starting in July, according to Cynthiana Chief Ray Johnson.

The chief added that Shannon Clem has also been hired as a certified officer.

Clem and Coppage are able to go straight to work while all recruit hires must go through the academy.

Johnson said with the 22-week academy and field training, recruits hired now won't be ready to patrol solo until next spring.

"It's a long process," Johnson said.

In other business, the commission:

- Approved the second and final reading of an ordinance that changes the city's regular monthly meetings to the first and third Tuesdays at 5:30 p.m. in the City Hall commissioners' room. The change will begin July 1.

- Heard Drew Scaggs, from Central Kentucky Hauling (CKH) report that his company purchased Legacy-Carting and will be taking over Cynthiana's trash pick up.

Scaggs said Cynthiana has been linked to CKH due to Legacy taking the city's trash to the Georgetown landfill, which is owned by CKH.

Scaggs also noted that Toyota and CKH have partnered for a waste-to-energy project, which is the first of its kind in America.

He said 99.98 percent of all methane gas generated by the landfill will be piped into Toyota to power its assembly lines.

- Deferred action on chemical and lab analysis bids for further study.

- Heard Commissioner Billy Grayson report that some maintenance will be done at the City Hall gym. He said a door on the east side of the gym and a few windows need repair.

He also noted that the floor will be swept and buffed in advance of the Cynthiana High School Day, which is Saturday, June 27.

- Heard Grayson suggest that a committee be formed to look at options for the 911 Center.

"It will take a long time to study to see if it's even feasible to do anything," Grayson said of financial recurring shortfalls.

The 911 Center came up in the commission's budget workshop which followed the regular meeting.

There was discussion about the center having a $168,000 shortfall for 2015. That would be only the city's portion.

The Harrison County Fiscal Court will face the same shortfall.

It was previously reported that the primary reason for the shortfall is that money generated from landline fees has declined with the decreasing number of households with landlines.

- Heard Cynthiana Fire Chief Jay Sanders report that Cynthiana Baptist Day Care children will be visiting the fire department. They were scheduled to be there on Wednesday.

- Announced the retirement of Assistant Fire Chief Charles Allen Carson.

- Heard Sanders report that firefighters were in training last week.

- Heard Johnson report that between 30 and 100 motorcycles will be passing through Cynthiana on Saturday afternoon. The convoy will be heading to Bracken County for a fundraiser for first responders.

- Heard Johnson ask motorists to pay attention to the flaggers in construction zones.

- Noted that there is a $5 fine for anyone parking on city sidewalks.

- Reported that two Cynthiana officers will be going to bicycle training in Ohio.

- Heard Commissioner Jada Griggs report that applications for seasonal help in the public works department are still under review.

- Heard Griggs report that she is looking at paving projects for Cynthiana streets.

- Heard Gary Royalty, city supervisor, report that the Safe Routes to School project is nearing completion. He said handrails, grading and seeding are all that remains.

- Heard Commissioner Mark Mattmiller update the city's sewer rehab project.

He said much of the work has been completed and paving has begun.

- Heard Mattmiller report that the chemical building at the Main Licking River is in place.

He said the advantage of the building is that chemicals can be injected into the raw water at its intake. The chemicals will mix with the water as it travels from Devil's Backbone to Cynthiana.

- Heard Mattmiller report that there is substantial water damage at the Handy House.

He said the Heritage Council has a grant for a new roof and several thousand dollars in pledges for improvements.

"We should deal with this one way or another," Mattmiller said of the house that the county has already voted to demolish. "If we're going to tear it down, then tear it down. It's deteriorating and if it continues it will eliminate the option of restoring it."

- Approved a proclamation for Cynthiana High School Day on June 27.

- Heard Mayor James Smith report that two grants for Flat Run Veterans' Park are not being used.

A $42,500 grant will have to be turned back in because there isn't enough time to complete a trails project, which is what the grant was to be used for.

However, a $75,000 grant is also available for disc golf, fishing pier, soccer fields and basketball court.

Smith said Cynthiana's Rotary Club is planning to build basketball courts. The costs associated with what the Rotary Club plans can be used as part of the matching money required by the grant.

- Discussed revamping the city's employee evaluation system.

Smith said a proposal from James Hale involves training as well as evaluations.

Commissioners approved a $700 expense for implementing Hale's proposal on a sampling of city employees in public safety and finance.

- Heard Scott McCauley, chairman of the Harrison County Sanitation District, ask that the city consider running sewer lines to Northside Mobile Home Park.

McCauley said the newly formed district is challenged with improving sewage issues at Cedarbrook Subdivision, Northside Elementary and Northside Mobile Home Park, all of which operate package plants.

- Met in executive session to discuss proposed litigation and the liquidation of property.

Following the regular meeting, commissioners continued to work on the budget.

A special meeting will be held Thursday at 5:30 p.m. to continue budget discussions.

Civil War re-enactment coming up June 19-21 at Elks Farm

By KELLY MCKINNEY, NEWS WRITER

An epic battle between North and South will play out once again in Cynthiana.

The Second Battle of Cynthiana Civil War re-enactment is scheduled for June 19-June 21 at the Elks farm on U.S. Hwy. 62 E.

The event will bring to life a Civil War battle that raged more than 150 years ago, on June 11 and 12, 1864.

The battle was fought after Confederate Brigadier General John Hunt Morgan raided Kentucky and captured Cynthiana in the first battle of Cynthiana in 1862.

In the second battle, the union overcame and defeated Morgan's men.

In addition to the battle re-enactments, many other events will take place over the weekend as well, including a lady's tea and a period ball. Admission to the re-enactment events is free.

Gail Parker, who is on the Battle of Cynthiana board, said participants can expect to get a lot out of the re-enactment and surrounding events.

"The whole thing is exciting," she said. "It's exciting to see a way of life that's gone past."

Re-enactors try to teach attendees about what life was really like back then, Parker said.

"We try to teach the realistic aspect of how hard life was," she said.

She said it's also amazing to think about how critical Cynthiana was during the Civil War.

"It's very fascinating, if you're from here," she said. "It's like 'wow, we were really important.'"

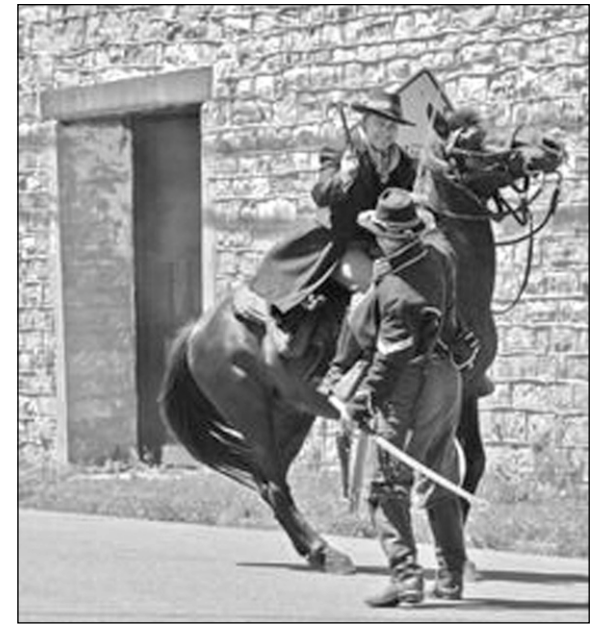

And the battle is fun to watch, Parker said.

"It's really exciting to see the fighting, and the horses," she said.

She said sometimes the actors will do something funny or silly, which makes the battle even more fun to watch.

Here is a list of the events scheduled:

Friday
Registration begins at 8 a.m. At 8 p.m., Re-enactors will put on a dance exhibition during the Chamber concert on the courthouse square in Cynthiana. The Civil War re-enactors will present a demonstration of the music and dances that were popular

"The tea is very, very elegant," she said.

If there are any spaces available, others are welcome to join.

The first of two battle re-enactments at the Elk's Farm will start at 2:30, Parker said.

A singing of the national anthem will take place at 3:30 p.m. at Flat Run Veterans' Park.

At 6 p.m., dinner will be served under the picnic shelter at Elks Lodge. Dinner is $6 per person.

during that time period.

Saturday

The major events surrounding the Battle of Cynthiana get underway Saturday, June 20. At 1:30 p.m., a ladies tea will be held under the picnic shelter at Elks Lodge. The ladies participating will be dressed in period dress, Parker said.

"The tea is very, very elegant," she

The Civil War period will again come alive that evening, with a ball reminiscent of grand balls from that era.

The public is welcome to join the ball, which begins at 9 p.m. under the picnic shelter. The ball will feature the dances that were popular among people of the day, and will be taught to those who attend, Parker said.

"Each dance is taught right there, so people don't have to be shy about it," she said.

One of the dances that will be performed at the ball is the Gothic Dance, which is really amorous, Parker said. It begins with the men lined up on one side, women on the other, and they take three steps toward each other. They don't actually meet; they "flirt with their eyes," Parker said.

Other dances include the Broom Dance and the Virginia Reel.

Also on Saturday evening, re-enactors will fire a cannon for participants to see.

Sunday

At 11 a.m. on Sunday morning, battle re-enactor and Baptist minister Chadwick Noel will officiate a period church service at the Elk's Farm.

The last battle re-enactment of the weekend will happen at 2 p.m.

Refreshments will be available during the ball and during the battle re-enactments, Parker said.

No arrests in custody melee following graduation

By BECKY BARNES, EDITOR

A post-graduation custody dispute turned violent Friday night on the Hilltop.

As hundreds of cars tried to exit the Athletic Complex around 9 p.m. traffic was blocked briefly as authorities attempted to control the fight.

While no criminal charges were filed, each of the parties involved were advised to see the county attorney if they wish to pursue charges.

According to a report filed by Cynthiana

Police Ptl. Lewis Crump III, eight people were embroiled in the fight for custody of the young child of Gary Doyle Jr. and Julie A. Dye.

Crump said he did not witness any of the physical altercation. However, when he arrived at 320 Education Drive, Julie Dye was lying on the pavement. He said subjects from both parties had what appeared to be minor injuries.

Brown Ambulance Service was called; however, everyone declined assistance.

Dye, her mother Juliana Dye, Kimberly Dye and Daniel Winget were separated from the Doyles -- Gary Jr., his mother Sherry Doyle, and sister, Paige M. Doyle.

When Crump tried to move his cruiser, the Dye contingent yelled "He's getting away," and ran after Gary Jr., who still had the child.

Ptl. Michael Kiskaden, who assisted Crump, said the Dyes had paperwork from Indiana, but that it did not establish custody.

The Doyles were in possession of the child and therefore were able to maintain custody pending court action.

"It's the last place that this should have taken place," Kiskaden said of the altercation that marred graduation.

According to Crump's report, the Harrison County Sheriff's Department has been involved in the dispute between the families since May 22, 2015.

Safe canning practices keep everyone healthy

Gardens are beginning to bear the fruits of our labor. Soon, it will be time to start thinking about preserving some of the excess produce for winter months. Safety is of utmost importance for those of us who will be preserving food, because, let's face it, no one wants to get sick from poorly processed food.

Bacteria, molds and yeast can grow quickly on fresh foods, and fruits and vegetables contain oxygen and enzymes that can cause food to spoil. Safe home canning methods help prevent the growth of these bacteria, yeast and molds in addition to removing excess oxygen from the food, which destroys spoilage enzymes and helps form strong vacuum seals on the jars.

You should remember several key points of proper food preservation to keep yourself and your family healthy and safe from botulism, which can be a deadly form of food poisoning.

Despite what you may find on the Web or social media, only two methods are acceptable for home canning safe, quality products. They are the boiling water canning method and the pressure canner method. The type of food you are preserving will dictate which method to use. Boiling water canners can be used on fruits and other products that have a high concentration of acid, such as salsas or pickles with enough lemon juice or vinegar added. Acid helps prevent the growth of harmful bacteria in canned food.

Vegetables, poultry and meats do not contain enough acid to prevent the growth of bacteria. For these foods, a boiling water canner will not reach a high enough temperature to destroy the bacteria that can cause botulism, so you must use a pressure canner to ensure safe processing.

Make sure to use up-to-date equipment that's in proper working condition. It's never a good idea to purchase a pressure canner at a yard sale as replacement parts and manufacturer's instructions may be no longer available. Pressure canners made after 1997 were designed with more safety features and weigh less than older canners. Follow the manufacturer's instructions on canner care and maintenance. For dial gauge pressure canners, the accuracy of the gauge should be tested each year. This can be done at your local Extension office.

Remember to always use tested, research-based recipes to preserve foods. These recipes are available in Cooperative Extension Service home canning publications, in the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Complete Guide to Home Canning or on the National Center for Home Food Preservation's website. Follow each recipe as closely as possible. Do not make additions or changes unless options are provided in the recipe. Not following the recipe precisely or using a recipe that is not research-based, may not completely kill all bacteria and result in sickness.

Use only Mason-type canning jars and self-sealing lids. Do not reuse old jars like those that previously contained peanut butter or mayonnaise. After processing, allow the jars to cool naturally. This helps form a good vacuum seal

Canning Lid Update

Jarden Home Brands, manufacturer of Ball and Kerr brand lids, has recently announced that preheating their lids before use is no longer required. The lids have not changed. Years of research have shown that preheating their lids is not necessary to obtain good seals. The lids just need to be washed in hot soapy water, rinsed well and kept at room temperature until used. Boiling lids can lead to seal failures.

Dandi-Lions edge Bandits 10-9 in Pigtail Game of the Week

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

The Dandi-Lions improved to 2-0 in the young season as they edged the Bandits, 10-9, in Pigtail action Tuesday night.

The Dandi-Lions are coached by Jeff and Beth Delong, Steve and Kim Bowlin and Joe Hamm.

The Bandits, who played their first game Tuesday, are coached by Michael and Maria Coy, Aubrey Dye, Derrick Dye, and Brandon Turner.

The game was close early as the Dandi-Lions led 3-2 after the first inning.

Desiree Couve had a two-RBI double in the first inning to spark the scoring.

The Dandi-Lions scored one run in each of the next two innings to take a 5-2 lead into the top of the fourth.

The Bandits rallied in the fourth to score three times to tie the game but the Dandi-Lions put five on the board in the bottom of the fourth for a 10-5 advantage.

Hanna Mitts and CeCe Boland drove in two runs and scored a run in the fourth for the Dandi-Lions.

The game remained 10-5 until the top of the sixth when the Bandits put four hits together to score four times to cut the lead to one with only one out. Two of the next three batters struck out though to make the final margin 10-9. Marissa Taylor had a big double for the Bandits in this last inning rally.

Quintana Walker, Couve, Madison Delong, Emma Preece and Boland each had two hits for the Dandi-Lions. Allison Dye, Owyn McCoy and Alyssa Hall each had three hits for the Bandits, who out-hit the Dandi-Lions 16 to 15. Taylor and Skylar Turner each added two hits for the 0-1 Bandits.

The Pigtail League is made up of girls ages 7-9 and is a coach-pitch league.

Baseball Hall of Fame inducts new class June 27

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

Saturday, June 27, is the date for the third class of the Cynthiana-Harrison County Baseball Alumni Hall of Fame induction.

Another important date looms closer though as the deadline for discounted tickets is this Saturday, June 13. Tickets are $15 per adult and $5 for children under 10 if purchased by June 13. If not, the cost is $20 per adult and $10 per child under 10 years old.

Tickets may be purchased at Terry Jones' A Action Pest Control on US 27 South or from Jimmy Fuller at the pro shop of the Cynthiana Country Club.

The evening begins at 5 p.m. with a meet-and-greet session with the meal being served at 5:30 p.m.

The meal will consist of David Turner's famous pulled pork sandwich, cole slaw, baked beans, potato chips and coffee or tea.

The reason for the early discount is to get an accurate head count for the meal preparation.

This year's inductees will be Terry Smith, Scott Fryman, Coach Jim Schmidt, J.B. Schmidt, Richard Dennis, Al Isaac, Mike Wachter and Terry Jones.

Also being inducted for their tremendous contribution to baseball in Harrison County will be Donnie Fight and Clarence Jones. The pair coached Little League for many years impacting the lives of scores of youngsters.

The night's induction ceremony is scheduled to begin at 6:15 p.m. following the meal and promises to be an entertaining night of baseball enjoyment.

Summer programs in full swing at River Road with more play to come

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

The youth ball leagues, whether it be baseball or softball, are all in full swing at River Road Park.

Recreation director Darrell Baxter discussed the different positions that each league is in and some of the issues surrounding them.

"We have players not coming to games already in Little League," bemoaned Baxter. "This makes it hard on the coaches when parents do not bring the child or call to let the coach know he isn't coming."

Little League is about half over with the A's, coached by Brian Williams and Dr. Rick Arnold, in the lead as they stand undefeated at this writing.

B.J. Sizemore's Mets are one game back losing only once followed by the Rays, coached by Daryl Cole, who have two losses.

"The rest of the teams are in a jumble," noted Baxter.

A highlight from last week was the Cardinals' Ian Boland firing a no hitter against the Dodgers.

Boland did walk six batters while allowing no hits in the 15-0 Cardinal win.

There are 10 teams in the Little League.

Coach-pitch has six teams down from eight last year as overall participation dropped for all leagues by about 50 players. Some of this is attributed to players (or their parents) opting to play only for a select team.

The Coach-pitch numbers are down mainly because girls now have a softball league and are not participating in coach-pitch baseball.

Petey Reynolds' Astros lead this league followed closely by Jason Wiggins' Mariners and the Braves, coached by Heath Price.

The eight-team T-ball league finds the Yankees with one loss trailing the undefeated Braves by one game.

This league has great participation and a lot of action.

The Pony League, for boys 13 and up, has about 30 youngsters participating.

This league started last week-end with a doubleheader with Nicholas County.

Softball has two leagues for the girls with the goal to become three leagues.

There are four Pony Tail teams made up of girls 10 and over while the Pig Tail league has three teams made up of girls 7-9 years old.

The goal, eventually, is to have a 7-8 T-ball, a 9-10 coach-pitch and a 10-and-over regular league.

The booming success of the youth basketball league for girls last winter has Baxter hoping for a like result in softball.

Baxter credits the encouragement and hard work of Kim Furnish and Christine Garnett as part of the reason for the good numbers that are playing.

The fields at River Road Park are busy every night with some of the 400-plus youth playing ball.

Baxter hopes to add to the numbers next year but that will require more coaches and umpires.

"I had a hard time finding enough volunteers this year," noted Baxter. "I hope that if we can add more players we can also find good coaching and umpiring to go along with them."

MIKE’S MINUTE

Some catching up to do

A lot can happen in two weeks and I feel like I need to catch up after being in Alaska for the better part of the 14 days previous to writing this. I also want to write a little about sports in Alaska.

It is another world from Kentucky. The Breds and Fillies both came up a little short in the region but both had good seasons and represented Harrison County well. They also won their respective districts for what has to seem like the umpteenth time to the district competition. The track and tennis teams also did well with Cassidy Cook winning a state championship, the highlight of the track season. She will attend Murray State on a track scholarship. Jordan Kenney signed a football scholarship to Pikeville; Robbie Stroub a baseball scholarship to the University of the Cumberlands, and Jordan Doram signed a basketball scholarship to Campbellsville University as the Harrison County athletes continue to gain recognition around the state. I hated to miss all of this action but my plan to be there for all of this and more was altered by a trip for two weeks to Alaska. The importance of sports is the same in Alaska as most everywhere but the focus is on different levels. High school sports are the main point of emphasis with basketball the main topic of most Alaskan sports fans. The weather is much more appropriate for indoor sports as you might imagine but the outdoor sports still hold much importance. Surprisingly to me was the interest in high school cross country and track as it was mentioned much more often than football or baseball. Of course, since the grass doesn’t grow well or is not deep rooted, football fields are made up of very hard dirt or even gravel at times. The rainy climate does not favor baseball much but the hardy nature of the Alaskan residents does. There is a history of baseball in Alaska that dates way back with a mix of cricket and kick ball, the beginning of the Alaskan variety of the game. Major league players such as Tom Seaver, Barry Bonds, and Mark McGuire have played parts of their early careers in Alaska. The legendary Satchel Paige pitched several seasons in Anchorage before and after his career in the Negro League and the Major Leagues. There are accounts of games played in cold and rain as well as on an actual iceberg. The current form of baseball was brought to Alaska by the service men stationed there during World War II. The official sport of the state is dog mushing, but most of us are not too familiar with that grueling sport. I visited a dog musher’s kennels and saw a demonstration of actual mushing, but still know very little about the sport. The kennel that we visited was Happy Trails Kennels in Wasilla, Alaska. The owner was Martin Buser, who has competed in 32 Iditarod’s, winning three. Buser has the current record of 30 straight races dating back to 1985. The dogs get the credit here for being the athlete. Buser’s son was demonstrating the type of protective gear the dogs wear during a race. After he put one item on he could hardly hold onto the dog. The dogs love to run and want to do so at every opportunity. The amount of protective gear for both the musher and the dog for this race is staggering. The whole race is much more complicated than a novice like me could have ever imagined. Like I said at the start, the people of Alaskan are a hardy lot with their sport focus directed at much different activities than many other states. They still hold a great desire to compete and support their young people just like the rest of us.

Harrison County soccer girls do well in club soccer season

By MIKE ALDRIDGE, SPORTS WRITER

Club soccer is equivalent to AAU for basketball players and several of the Harrison County Middle School and High School players have participated this off-season to date. The U-17 Paris Springboks captured the President’s Cup title in their age group. There are six Fillies on the team. They are Amelia Bolin, Taylor Landrum, Laura Beth Ledford, Jordan McDaniel, Charlie Moore and Chandlyr Puckett. The U-12 Paris Springboks, coached by HCMS and HCHS Assistant coach David McDaniel, also had a great season. This team has eight Harrison County Middle School players active this season. They are Elizabeth Allison, Kendall Box, Gabrielle Hatterrick, Olivia Hatterrick, Hailey Herrington, Kylie Hudgins, Laurel McDaniel and Taylor Ross. This team finished fourth in the Bluegrass Conference this spring. Playing in the top division of the Kentucky Select Soccer League, they went on to win their division with a 10-2 record outscoring their opponents 40-to-15 along the way. They ended the season last weekend with a second place finish in the Creek Classic in Dayton, Ohio. They lost a tough 1-0 match to Penn Forest United of Pittsburgh for the runner-up spot. They advanced into the championship round by outscoring the opposition 12-3 in pool play. Finally, HCHS freshman Kelby Gaunce is making a name for herself regionally playing with the Lexington Futball Club. This team, which is made up of girls from seven counties, plays in the Midwest Region League that covers the top teams from a seven-to 10-state area. The LFC finished fourth of nine teams in their division this season. This extremely competitive league prepares the Lexington Futball Club for the State Open Cup, which hosts top teams from Kentucky ages 13-18, in play that covers two weekends. The Lexington Futball Club won the State Open for the fourth straight year outscoring their opponents 10-1 in five matches. LFC will now be eligible to compete in the US Youth Soccer Association Region II tournament which will feature teams from 14 states.

HCHS boys and girls golf tryouts this summer

Golf team tryouts for Harrison County High School will be held Thursday, July 16, for boys and Friday, July 17, for girls.

According to information from Coach Jason Crisp, the high interest in being on the teams has spurred the need for tryouts. The boys and girls teams will be limited to 10 players each.

The boys' July 16 tryouts will begin at 7:45 a.m. at the Cynthiana Country Club. The girls will be the following day at 7:45 a.m.

Crisp asked that all golfers be at the course no later than 7:30 a.m. on their respective try-out date.

In order to try out for the team, each potential golfer must have an up-to-date physical. Crisp said documentation is a must for trying out for the teams.

Chasing addictions is running from God

The late comedienne Gilda Radner used to say, "It's always something."

In this life, it's always something. There's always something that's your Achilles' heel, your kryptonite, your downfall, your master. There's always something that holds power over you, making you bow down to it, obey it. There's always something that you start out loving and often end up hating because it eventually crushes you.

But if you're fortunate, it brings you to Jesus.

Many years ago, I was at a women's retreat, and during a break I got up to run back to my bunk in the cabin I shared with a bunch of other women.

I thought I'd be alone -- I needed a fix. I looked around as I got to my bunk and reached under my pillow for my stash I had hidden in a bag.

My hands shook as I opened the plastic baggie, shaking from anticipation combined with fear that I'd get caught. I unwrapped the foil -- and bit into a milk chocolate-covered maple cream candy. As my eyes rolled back from ecstasy of the chocolate rush, I may or may not have sighed audibly. That's when I heard a voice say, "What are you doing?"

It was my friend Bobbi.

Nancy Kennedy
Columnist

GRACE NOTES

"Brushing my teeth," I told her.

She looked at me with what I thought was disdain, although it may have been confusion since I obviously was not brushing my teeth, and shook her head.

I felt exposed and condemned. I felt ashamed.

Not that chocolate is illegal or immoral, but at that moment I knew I had a problem.

I had brought a bag of what I called "emergency" chocolates with me to the retreat, my motto back then being, "You never know when you'll be someplace without a vending machine nearby."

Being my friend, Bobbi knew that about me. She knew I became quite anxious if I couldn't have my fix. Chocolate was my drug, my smack, my gin and tonic, my Chardonnay.

It sounds ridiculous, but I assure you, anything that grabs your soul, that makes you structure your life around it, that makes you lie, that makes you hide and feel guilty and ashamed, that something, no matter how small and innocuous, is a problem.

Bobbi told me, "Nancy, chocolate is your god."

Her words stung, but I laughed it off and told her she was wrong, that I could quit anytime I wanted to, that it really wasn't a problem. It was more like a hobby, a mere distraction, a dabbling. I was merely a connoisseur of fine confections (except I would eat anything made from cocoa nibs, fat and sugar).

She walked away and I broke down crying. She had delivered a message to me from God.

Earlier, the retreat speaker had asked, "What holds you captive? What is your greatest passion? What's the first thing you think about when you wake up in the morning and the last thing when you lay your head on your pillow at night?"

The correct answer, of course, is Jesus. But the honest answer? At that moment my greatest passion was in a plastic bag hidden under my pillow.

It's what I wanted first. It was my go-to for comfort and the thing I feared I couldn't live without. Thus, the "emergency" stash I carried with me always.

In "Addiction & Grace," Gerald May M.D., calls addiction the "most powerful psychic enemy of humanity's desire for God," and that every human is addicted to something -- some substance, relationship, belief, possession, accomplishment, dream or goal, etc.

We all naturally go after something other than God, turning to it first for comfort, affirmation, self-worth or love.

We are all addicted to something. It's always something -- something other than Jesus.

But he is the answer, the antidote. He is the one our soul craves, whether we realize it or not.

The good news is this: It's not about us loving him as much as it is knowing and trusting that he loves us first. He loves us first and better, first and best.

When I remember that, and that he and his love are more than enough to satisfy all my longings, all the some-things in my life that I turn to first lose their power over me.

True fact: I don't even like chocolate that much anymore.

HMH purchases cutting-edge generation of open MRI technology

Harrison Memorial Hospital patients will now have access to more advanced imaging technology with its new Seimen's Magnetom Espree, the first open-bore magnetic resonance imaging (MRI). This is the region's first open-bore MRI system, which offers a larger opening for diagnostic testing.

MRIs provide digital imaging that helps physicians detect abnormalities within the body that a traditional x-ray cannot detect. The new open-bore MRI is equipped with a 1.5 Tesla magnet, providing five times more power than the previous magnet at HMH. This technology improves patient care in a variety of ways.

"We're able to do new exams that we couldn't do prior to this technology, including certain angiographic studies that can be done now without the need for intravenous contrast," said Jerrod Davis, HMH Chief Operating Officer. "There are so many benefits. It has higher strength and provides faster scan times and better image quality that is vital for the most accurate diagnosis. And, best of all, the patient experience will be improved because of the larger opening and shorter scan times."

Davis points out that, in the past, there have often been misconceptions about the term "open MRI."

"Open MRI meant that the machine itself was shaped like a horseshoe rather than completely enclosing the patient. With that type of machine, a patient can only look outside of the machine when lying on his or her side; however, there are only a handful of procedures that allow patients to lie on their side. Many exams require patients to lie on their back, which in a traditional "open" MRI actually provides less room than our new wide-bore MRI. So, if a patient has anxiety with closed spaces, a traditional "open" MRI didn't always provide a better experience," said Davis.

The new Seimen's Magnetom Espree technology provides a wider inner diameter (70cm) and more space between the patient's face and the top of the opening (30 cm from head to roof). That's roughly twice that of traditional open magnets. Another significant advantage is that this technology is considered "short bore," meaning the length of the gantry (opening) is only 125 cm. This enables the patient's head and feet to remain exposed outside the magnet for many exams. When the patient has to be inside, the magnet is so short that he or she is able to easily see out, reducing anxiety.

"When we shopped for our new technology, our team members at HMH tried out each of the technologies we considered, literally climbing inside as a patient to evaluate for comfort and anxiety," said Pam Bowles, HMH Radiology Manager. "With this MRI, we're able to do about 60% of our exams with the patient's head outside the gantry or opening."

With the patient's head and feet outside the gantry, the equipment will accommodate patients with special needs, such as those who have mobility issues, those who are claustrophobic or patients dependent upon medical equipment. The wider opening is also a real benefit when treating larger patients.

"Our new MRI allows

us to partner with other providers, like UK Healthcare, and offer preliminary imaging to their specialists. For example, we can download any protocol from a specialist there and do the legwork necessary for Cyber Knife procedures that will be performed in Lexington," said Bowles. She also pointed out the wide range of diagnostic testing that can occur with this technology, from brain scans for neurological diseases, such as Multiple Sclerosis, to musculoskeletal scans to check joints, fluids, ligaments and tendons to MRIs of the abdomen.

The efficiency and clarity with which this technology produces images are unprecedented at HMH. The Seimen's Magnetom Espree allows hospital staff members to scan a larger portion of the body than previous technology. Being able to avoid constant repositioning of the body is a significant improvement in comfort for patients. But, possibly most significant of all is the increase in the quality of the images the technology provides. Clearer images are the foundation for accurate diagnoses and treatments.

The new open-bore MRI adds another component to the already stellar state-of-the-art imaging technology at HMH. Other diagnostic imaging equipment at the hospital includes a 64-slice computed tomography (CT) scanner, 4-D ultrasound equipment, nuclear medicine equipment, a digital mammography unit, a bone density scanner and digital radiography equipment.

"The new open-bore MRI is the latest investment by HMH in providing the best quality care for the patient," says

Sheila Currans, HMH Chief Executive Officer. "We're investing in key medical technology that meets the needs of our patients and keeps them close to home."

The HMH Radiology Department plays a critical role in the accurate imaging, reading of images and diagnoses of patients by offering a full-range of services for both adult and pediatric patients. The department is staffed by three board-certified, experienced radiologists, as well as radiology technologists. All radiology technologists are certified and licensed in their fields of practice.

The new open-bore MRI is located across from the HMH cardiac catheterization lab entrance on the HMH campus. To learn more about the radiology department, please call 859-235-3559 or visit the HMH website at www.harrisonmemhosp.com.

Signups needed for ag trip to western Kentucky

By GARY CARTER, COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT FOR AGRICULTURE

Over the years we have sponsored several trips all over the US. We have about covered all parts of our country with the exception being our own state.

Three years ago, our Extension Agent group here in Central Kentucky visited Christian County in far western Kentucky. The community which includes the town of Hopkinsville is large and has vast amounts of agriculture. On Monday, July 27 we will embark on a tour to western Kentucky.

The trip will include three days. We will leave the Harrison County Extension Office on Monday, July 27 and use this day for travel. Tuesday, July 28 we will see the large grain and tobacco farms, vegetable markets, and we might take a peek of some very large equipment used in the area. On Wednesday, July 29 we will make a few more stops prior to the return to Cynthiana.

I am sure you are wondering what the cost of the trip will be. For $200 per person you will get three days and two nights lodging at the Hampton Inn, continental breakfast two mornings, bus fare, tip for bus driver and snacks and drinks. You will be in charge of paying for your other meals. The price of this trip is based on double room occupancy. If you require a room by yourself the cost will go up an additional $100.

To make these arrangements, I need to know very quickly if you are interested in going on the trip with us. If you are interested, call the Extension Office at 859-234-5510 as soon as possible. There is only room for 50 participants on the trip so act fast so you don't get left out.

Ag Development Phase I funds available for all local farmers

The Harrison County Ag Development Board (Phase I) met Monday, May 11 at the Harrison County Extension Center.

The meeting was the beginning phase of the 2015 Ag Development Program for Harrison County. Harrison County is receiving nearly $400,000 to allocate to local farmers thru an application process in the next couple of months.

Once the county application is received in Frankfort and approved, our county committee will announce the training program and signup date for the programs. The funds available will allow the local community to receive $3,000 on a 50/50 cost-share. This is an increase of $500 from last year. Projects will be retroactive back six months from the date the application process opens.

The Phase I funding is available to all producers in Harrison County. Watch for signup in the near future and take advantage of the programs to help improve your farm operation.

Digging and dividing daffodils for better blooming results

If your daffodils didn't bloom well this year ask yourself these two questions: Did you allow the foliage to die back naturally last summer before you cut it off; and has it been eons since they were last divided?

Patience is a virtue when it comes to daffodils.

Often the first color to appear in early spring, their beauty is long awaited.

Then we have to wait another two months before we can remove the dulling green foliage.

The foliage gathers nutrients for the bulb to store over winter, allowing it to grow and bloom next spring. If you remove the foliage prematurely, you greatly reduce the blooms for next year.

Dead-heading the spent blossoms will help prolong blooming and allow more nutrients to be absorbed by the bulb when the bloom cycle is complete.

If it has indeed been eons since you last divided your daffodil clumps, plan to do so when the foliage dies back naturally in mid-June.

Daffodils should be divided every 5 to 7 years; and if you do it when the foliage is ready to be cut back at least you can easily locate what you want to dig.

Use a pitch fork to pop up your bulbs. A pitchfork is less likely to sever the bulbs and helps to loosen the soil around the bulbs. Once the bulbs are out of the ground, clean them off and then check them over.

Discard any bulbs that are soft, bruised or punctured by your pitch fork, as the case may be.

Pretend you are selecting onions from the grocery store. Any damage means that they are more likely to rot. Break apart the loosely attached "baby" bulbs, leaving those that are firmly attached to the mother bulb.

These larger bulbs will produce more bloom next spring. The baby bulbs will need a year to grow.

It is best, and more convenient, to replant your bulbs right away. This way you do not need to worry about curing and storing them properly until fall planting.

I like to plant clusters of large and small bulbs so the smaller non-flowering bulbs are not so noticeable.

Or, plant the smallest bulbs in an area where they can mature for a year and then move them where they can be enjoyed.

A well-drained environment is essential to growing healthy daffodils, or else they may rot.

To prepare your planting area, dig down about 10 inches so you can add a special concoction to ensure good drainage.

Helen Trueblood, a Southern Indiana daffodil aficionado, calls it "chomp" because she adds perlite, river gravel, sand, compost and calcium enriched bulb-boosting fertilizer (low in nitrogen) and then "chomps" it all together.

Drop your bulb in, and cover it with a light soil and compost mixture and water.

Plant bulbs at a depth about 2 to 3 times their diameter, and about 4 to 8 inches apart.

Choose a site that will camouflage the foliage after blooming is complete.

Ground cover beds in your landscape are ideal because the ground cover helps to maintain soil moisture and the foliage is not as noticeable against the green back drop. Keep in mind that they will not always nod their heads towards you and your vantage point, daffodil blooms nod their heads towards the sun so plant them with any shade coming from behind the bed.

USDA announces restart of Biomass Crop Assistance Program for renewable energy

The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) announces that incentives will resume this summer for farmers, ranchers and forest landowners interested in growing and harvesting biomass for renewable energy. The support comes through the Biomass Crop Assistance Program (BCAP), which was reauthorized by the 2014 Farm Bill. BCAP provides financial assistance to establish and maintain new crops of energy biomass, or who harvest and deliver forest or agricultural residues to a qualifying energy facility.

Financial assistance is available through BCAP for costs associated with harvesting and transporting agriculture or forest residues to facilities that convert biomass crops into energy. Eligible crops may include corn residue, diseased or insect infested wood materials, or orchard waste.

The energy facility must first be approved by USDA to accept the biomass crop. Facilities can apply for, or renew, their BCAP qualification status. Federal funds ($11.5 million) will be allocated to support the delivery of biomass materials through December 2015.

Farmers, ranchers and forest landowners can also receive financial assistance to grow biomass crops that will be converted into energy in selected BCAP project areas.

New BCAP project area proposals will be solicited beginning this summer and accepted through fall 2015, with new project area announcements and enrollments taking place in early spring 2016. The extended proposal submission period allows project sponsors time to complete any needed environmental assessments and allows producers enough lead time to make informed decisions on whether or not to pursue the BCAP project area enrollment opportunity.

This fiscal year USDA's Farm Service Agency (FSA) will allocate up to $8 million for producer enrollment to expand and enhance existing BCAP project areas. Additionally, in accordance with the 2014 Farm Bill, underserved farmers are eligible for a higher establishment cost share.
